

Rest for the Weary Soul

THE CLIENT

Kircher Design and Build met with the homeowners in late January. A mother and father of three children, these hardworking parents expressed their remodeling objectives.

THE SITUATION

Our clients wanted a clearly-defined master suite consisting of a bathroom, walk-in closet, and bedroom. The bathroom needed to be large enough for an additional shower, a tub, two sinks instead of one, and storage for towels and toiletries. Their dream feature for the walk-in closet was an island to use as a place for shoe organization and to gather clothing essentials for the day. They also requested a larger master bedroom so they could upgrade to the king size bed.

THE SOLUTION

To achieve their requests, we created a new layout for the space, which required several structural changes. We moved the door of the master bedroom further into the hallway which created a distinct entrance for the master suite. We relocated the wall and removed the closet between the existing master bathroom and closet room, which enlarged the existing master bathroom. We installed an island in the new closet and removed the existing one to make space for a king sized bed. The clients love their new, open layout remodeled space!
